MAN HUNT BEGINS AS GUNNER FINDS BILLY DANSEY SLAIN

Detectives Comb Swamp for Tracks of Slayer of Hammonton's Perfect Child

WOMAN LIVING NEARBY MAY PROVIDE SOME CLUE

Soldier Who Tried to Kill Blue Anchor Girl to Be Questioned by Authorities Convinced that little Billy Dansey of Hammenton, N. J., was murdered. detectives today are employing all the arts of criminal detection to run down the slayer. Missing since October S, the boy's body was found yesterday afternoon in a swamp not far from his home, sweater the boy wore the day he dis-appeared was found on a tree near the body. His shoes and clothing were scattered about near the spot. The fact that the clothing had been removed from the boy, detectives say, is one of the strongest links in the theory that he was murdered, and did not die from exhaustion after wandering about through the swamp.

Murder Not Proven

Dr. L. R. Souder, county physician, said this afternoon a medical examination did not prove positively that the three-year-old boy had been willfully killed. The body was reduced to a skeleton, but all the bones were intact. County Detectives Wilson and Nusbaum this afternoon questioned Mrs. Margaret Koons, who lives within 300 yards of the spot where the body was found by a quail hunter.

Mrs. Koons reminded them that several days after the boy disappeared she found by a quail hunter.

Mrs. Koons reminded them that several days after the boy disappeared she called the attention of the authorities to a flock of buzzards hovering and diving around the swampland where the body was discovered.

Atlantic county detectives will visit the state prison at Trenton to examine a former soldier, confined there for trying to kill a seven-year-old Bluc Anchor girl a few weeks ago. Bluc Anchor is but a few miles from Hammonton and the detectives believe the soldier may know something of the killing of Billy Dansey.

monton and the detectives believe the soldier may know something of the killing of Billy Dansey.

Mrs. Stella Dansey, mother of the dead boy, is hysterical and under the care of doctors. She has not been allowed to see the body of her son, now lying in a Hammentan undertaking establishment. The bedy will probably be buried without her seeing it, the doctors and Hercules Dansey, her husband, feaving the effect of the sight.

The body will be taken to the Dansey home tomorrow. Funeral stretes will be held Monday morning. The Rev. Charles Mudge, of the Hammenton Presbyterian Church, will officiate. The bedy will be shipped to Pittsburgh, former home of the Danseys, for burial.

The body was a few hundred feet from Kent street, a thoroughfare in name only, between Tenth and Eleventh streets. The spot is rarely visited except by hunters. The thickets at this spot are wild, but not particularly thick. Kent street is a "blind" road

Mayor's Wife Is Proud of His Administration IS MOORE SLOGAN;

Mrs. Smith Looks Forward | Mayor Is True and Big. to Day When Husband Will Be Private Citizen

Hopes to Live Quietly in Glenside Home Wishes the Moores Success

There is a lovely stone house on Capitol Hill, Glenside, which is being honsecleaned to celebrate the imminent return of Mayor Thomas B. Smith to private life

It was Mrs. Smith in a simple pink gingham frock and frilly dust cap who told how happy they all were to retire from public life and enjoy their home. She had thrown her apron over the banister as she came downstairs and invited her visitor into the long drawing room with its windows looking down over the pretty little community of Clouside.

Gleuside.

It was the real woman, not just a mayor's wife, who talked, as she stroked the black and white spotted cat, the newest addition to the household.

"Mayor Smith's administration probably has been the nest unuusal one in Philadelphia's bistory," she said. "There have been so many bard and strengous times, and yet there are interesting things and, especially lately, many pleasing events that go far toward making up for the treables and tribula-POST; HE DECLINES IT Governor Announces He Will making up for the troubles and tribula-

Socialists, Elated by Election Results, Will Demand War Investigation

By the Associated Press

London, Nov. 22 .- The situation on the Adriatic as a result of Gabriele D'Annunzio's campaign has reached a crisis. Private advices leave no doubt that he is determined to nonex Dalmatia and attack Montenegro. It is not known, however, whether the insurgent poet leader shares the reported ambition of the military element to attack the government. One report says a republican undercurrent directed against the Italian monarchy exists among his forces.

It is stated in the advices that further advances by D'Annunzio will certainly precipitate hostilities with the Jugo-Slavs, who have concentrated troops prepared to resist aggression. The Jugo-Stavs, however, will direct their attack against D'Annunzio and not against the Italian Government, it is declared.

stirred to further efforts by the fact that the Italian elections were upfavorable to his cause. Many adventurers are flocking to his standard, the reports state, and among a certain element there seems to be a desire to make him resident of Italy. Some well-informed quarters believe he merely desires to annex Dulmatia for Italy and has no republican alobition. Whatever his attitude may be on this question, however, there appears to be no doubt that he has not abandoned his plans of aggression in the Adriatic
